

What I do with it?
 care about my garden or to you? Why do you even Why should I even listen heard it all.

Oh, yay.
 Another preachy pamphlet from a radical eco-activist here to tell me how my garden is killing the planet.
 Yeah, yeah, I've already heard it all.

 AWARENESS
 WEEK
 FEB 23-27
 2020

Look, I'd love to sit around and chat about your spiritual garden mission, but I already go to church, so I don't need all that. You know, God spoke to Moses through a burning bush.
 That's why I planted one!
 Actually, more than one.
 I have an entire hedgerow of them, which look stunning in the fall...
 Speaking of burning bushes,
 I need to go. The neighbor-is building a bonfire again.
 I don't want him actually setting my burning bushes on fire...

I know this, because it happened to me. I used to have a sterile, conventional yard. But as I started to transform my yard, my neighbors started stopping by to ask me about my plants. One asked me if he could hire me as a gardener.
 Delivery people would bend over to read the tags on my plants. Others asked me for recommendations. By removing invasive plants and replacing them with some beautiful natives, you become an inspiration, all while building a community that welcomes all living beings - humans and wildlife alike.

What? What do you mean
 "Why would I be concerned with what my neighbor
 does in his garden?"
 Are you nuts?
 What if an ember falls
 on my property?
 Well, no, it's absolutely not the same as me choosing to plant whatever I want.
 That's ridiculous!
 I swear if he builds that any bigger...

I'm just
 one person!
 Even if I changed
 my garden, what
 good would it do?
 It would give your neighbors the confidence to make changes to their gardens, too. Because it wouldn't look like a sacrifice.
 You'll find your garden come to life like never before, especially if you opt to replace them with native plants. They'll want what you have.

OH MY GOD DO YOU HEAR
 THIS GUY? HE SAYS IT'S MY FAULT THAT HE HAS
 TO BUILD THIS BONFIRE!
 I'M TELLING YOU! HE INTENDS TO SET MY HOUSE AND GARDEN ON FIRE!
 No, of course he didn't say that, but how else would you take it?
 Fine, I'll ask him, but I don't see how it could possibly mean anything else, unless he's burning effigs or some other satanic or whatever crap he's into...

Ok, so he told me he has tons of invasive species taking over the woods on his property.
 I don't get how that has anything to do with me.
 What do you mean, the birds spread it? I've never seen seed on my burning bushes. I wouldn't even know what it looks like.
 Besides, how does he know it's from mine?
 Everyone plants them!
 Even the township! If I get rid of mine, that wouldn't change anything.
